

The most common way people give up their power is by thinking they don't have any.

— Alice Walker, Speech